Make the Big Impression

> Contrast in the dark is the key. Prop eyes, pumpkin lights, even the props themselves need to stand out from the shadows. They have to be powerfully lit to be noticed.

> For static props, you can flash lights on them, use colored lights with triggered sounds...anything to make them stand out.

> The best startle effects are those that come from a prop that was in the dark before..and suddenly plunges at the observer (movement) and is now brightly lit (visible). Unfortunately, These props are also the most time consuming to make (or most expensive to buy).

> Keep your haunt safe. Darkness is spooky, but remember you have to keep the path to your door clean, neat, and visible.
