

http://hauntspace.com/forum/posts/id_2097/title_-fairly-cheap-and-easy-how-to%27s-for-indoor/

Body parts in a jar.

For these we got small canning jars, 12 for $7.00, I think. And just bought some 99 cent squishy body parts at Party City.

Just another idea for a witches kitchen. It keeps from year to year. A large mason jar filled with a mixture of charcoal ash from my grill, potting soil, and spanish moss. The label is a made from plain printer paper and a font from Word. To age the label wad it up several times, then place into a strong batch of tea put in a baking pan for several minutes. Glue the label onto the jar with a gluestick.